“Bought with a Price: The Limits of Christian Freedom” – 1 Cor. 6:12-20

1. According to vs. 12, what are the limits of the Christian’s freedom? How might this change the way we make choices?

2. Why is a theology of the body an often-neglected doctrine? Can you think of any examples where the physical body is neglected or viewed as unimportant?

3. According to this passage, what were our bodies created for?

4. What might “flee immorality” look like? Why is it so important to “flee it” rather than “fight it”?

5. What are some of the implications of vss. 19-20? How would living this out help to make us different from unbelievers?
